

Published on NCSE (<https://ncse.com>)

Home > "In the Beginning" redux

SHARE TWEET EMAIL PRINT [1]

NCSE Staff [2]

05.29.2007

"In the Beginning" redux [3]

For those who missed the BBC World Service's two-part program on creationism featuring NCSE's executive director Eugenie C. Scott and Henry M. Morris III of the Institute of Creation Research, it is now available [4] on the Templeton-Cambridge Journalism Fellowships in Science & Religion website. In the first part, Scott interviews atheist Richard Dawkins, non-theistic cosmologist Paul Davies, old-earth creationist Hugh Ross of Reasons to Believe, theistic evolutionist and Lutheran theologian Ted Peters from the Pacific School of Religion, and young-earth creationist Ken Ham of Answers in Genesis. In the second segment, Morris interviews atheist David Seaborg, evangelical pastor John MacArthur of The Master's College and Grace Community Church, and Presbyterian biologist Margaret Towne. Finally, Scott and Morris rendezvous at the edge of the Grand Canyon to share their awe at the canyon's beauty as well as to discuss the diversity of religious reactions to evolution they encountered while conducting their interviews.

NCSE [5]

2007 [6]

+ read [3]

Source URL: <https://ncse.com/news/2007/05/beginning-redux-001165#comment-0>

Links

[1] <https://ncse.com/printpdf/13116>

[2] <https://ncse.com/users/ncse-staff>

[3] <https://ncse.com/news/2007/05/beginning-redux-001165>

[4] http://www.templeton-cambridge.org/fellows/redfern/publications/2007.03-04/heart_and_soul/

[5] <https://ncse.com/ncse>

[6] <https://ncse.com/news/2007>

