NCSE's next webinar for activists [3]

NCSE is pleased to announce the next of a new series [4] of on-line workshops aimed at broadening and deepening the networks that make our work possible. The next workshop focuses on media outreach: the panelists will discuss their own experiences, and share advice and resources to help citizens like you plan for media outreach and be effective spokespeople for science.

Featured speakers are Robert Luhn, Director of Communications for NCSE; Liz Craig, a freelance writer and board member with Kansas Citizens for Science, and Erin Heath of the American Association for the Advancement of Science's Office of Government Relations. The panel will be moderated by NCSE's Josh Rosenau.

The workshop begins at 11:00 a.m. Pacific time/2:00 p.m. Eastern time) on February 27, 2014, and spaces are still available, so register now! (The session will be recorded, so don't worry if you're unable to register or participate.) Recording of the previous webinars in the series are now available [4] on-line, along with the slides used in the presentations.
