NCSE's Reid talks climate education [3]

NCSE's executive director Ann Reid appeared on Your Call, a daily radio show on San Francisco's KALW, on June 25, 2018, to discuss climate change education. Among the points she made on the episode, "One Planet: What Are K-12 Students Learning About Climate Change [4]," was that a majority of science teachers have said they need support in teaching the science of climate change, whether in the form of high-quality lessons or ways to navigate the challenges of teaching a topic that generates strong feelings and debate.
